LECTURE NOTES

The lecture slides will be posted in *.pdf format on the Intranet. You will require Adobe Reader to open

EXAMS

Both the midterm and final exam will draw from lectures and includes lecture notes and any material presented in the classroom (VIDEOS ARE FOR THE EXAMS). Information from the textbook and other resources not directly covered in class or in the assignments will not be tested on exams. Only the numbers, dates and names presented in the class are for the exams.

MID-TERM EXAMINATION

b. Cellphones ringing. I do not care who the call is from; you will not take it in class. Please switch off all pagers and cells before coming into class; even those that are in backpacks.

c. Chattering and sharing particularly interesting newspaper ads with your chums. It is a complete mystery to me why anyone would spend all kinds of money on a class, and then futz about rather than trying their best to follow the material. That kind of stuff happening in class will force me to deal with it, and will also interrupt the flow of the class, most particularly for the people sitting close to the perpetrator(s).

d. Behaviour that might have been acceptable (and which probably should not have been) in small high school classes is not acceptable in the University context. The level of demand in this class is sufficiently high that nothing less than your best effort will be adequate. You have only 24 hours of class contact time with me; every minute counts. I have a mass of fundamentally important ideas to communicate to you; we have to work hard together at it to succeed.

4. I do not mind questions in class if they can be answered quickly. If they cannot, I will defer answering them until the time between the two class hours, until after class or office hours.

5. I believe that the things that I am going to teach you are of surpassing importance. I have a passion for this material and very much want to transmit that to you. All the above is simply an attempt to make the process easier and more enriching.

6. If for any reason you don't want to talk to me directly, the TAs will also be available for consultation.
